

COMMUNITY SPACES NETWORK SOCIAL PURPOSE REAL ESTATE CONFERENCE

The Social Purpose Real Estate (SPRE) brought 225 nonprofit leaders, real estate professionals, funders, and community partners from across the country together for three days of learning, connection, and exploration. Hosted by the Community Spaces Network, formerly Nonprofit Centers Network (NCN), the national conference combined educational programming with opportunities to experience Detroit and explore innovative community spaces firsthand.

Special D Events provided event strategy and project management, venue and vendor coordination, hotel sourcing and room block management, speaker support, transportation, dine-around logistics, offsite event coordination, and comprehensive onsite management. With attendees moving among multiple hotels, venues, and experiences throughout the city, careful coordination kept the program running smoothly while allowing the client team to focus on its attendees, speakers, and mission.

SERVICES & SPECIAL FEATURES

Multi-Site Coordination

- With attendees staying at multiple hotels, our team sourced accommodations, managed transportation and room blocks, and coordinated details alongside the broader conference schedule. We also managed dine-around logistics, helping transform meals and movement throughout the city into an integrated part of the attendee experience.

Community Experiences

- Offsite programming gave attendees an opportunity to experience Detroit while exploring ideas central to the conference. Special D Events coordinated venues, vendors, transportation, timing, and onsite logistics for these experiences, connecting each activity to the larger conference program while managing the many details behind the scenes.

I especially appreciated the open communication about fees as we were on a tight budget. I felt like you are all trying to work with us and we are grateful!
